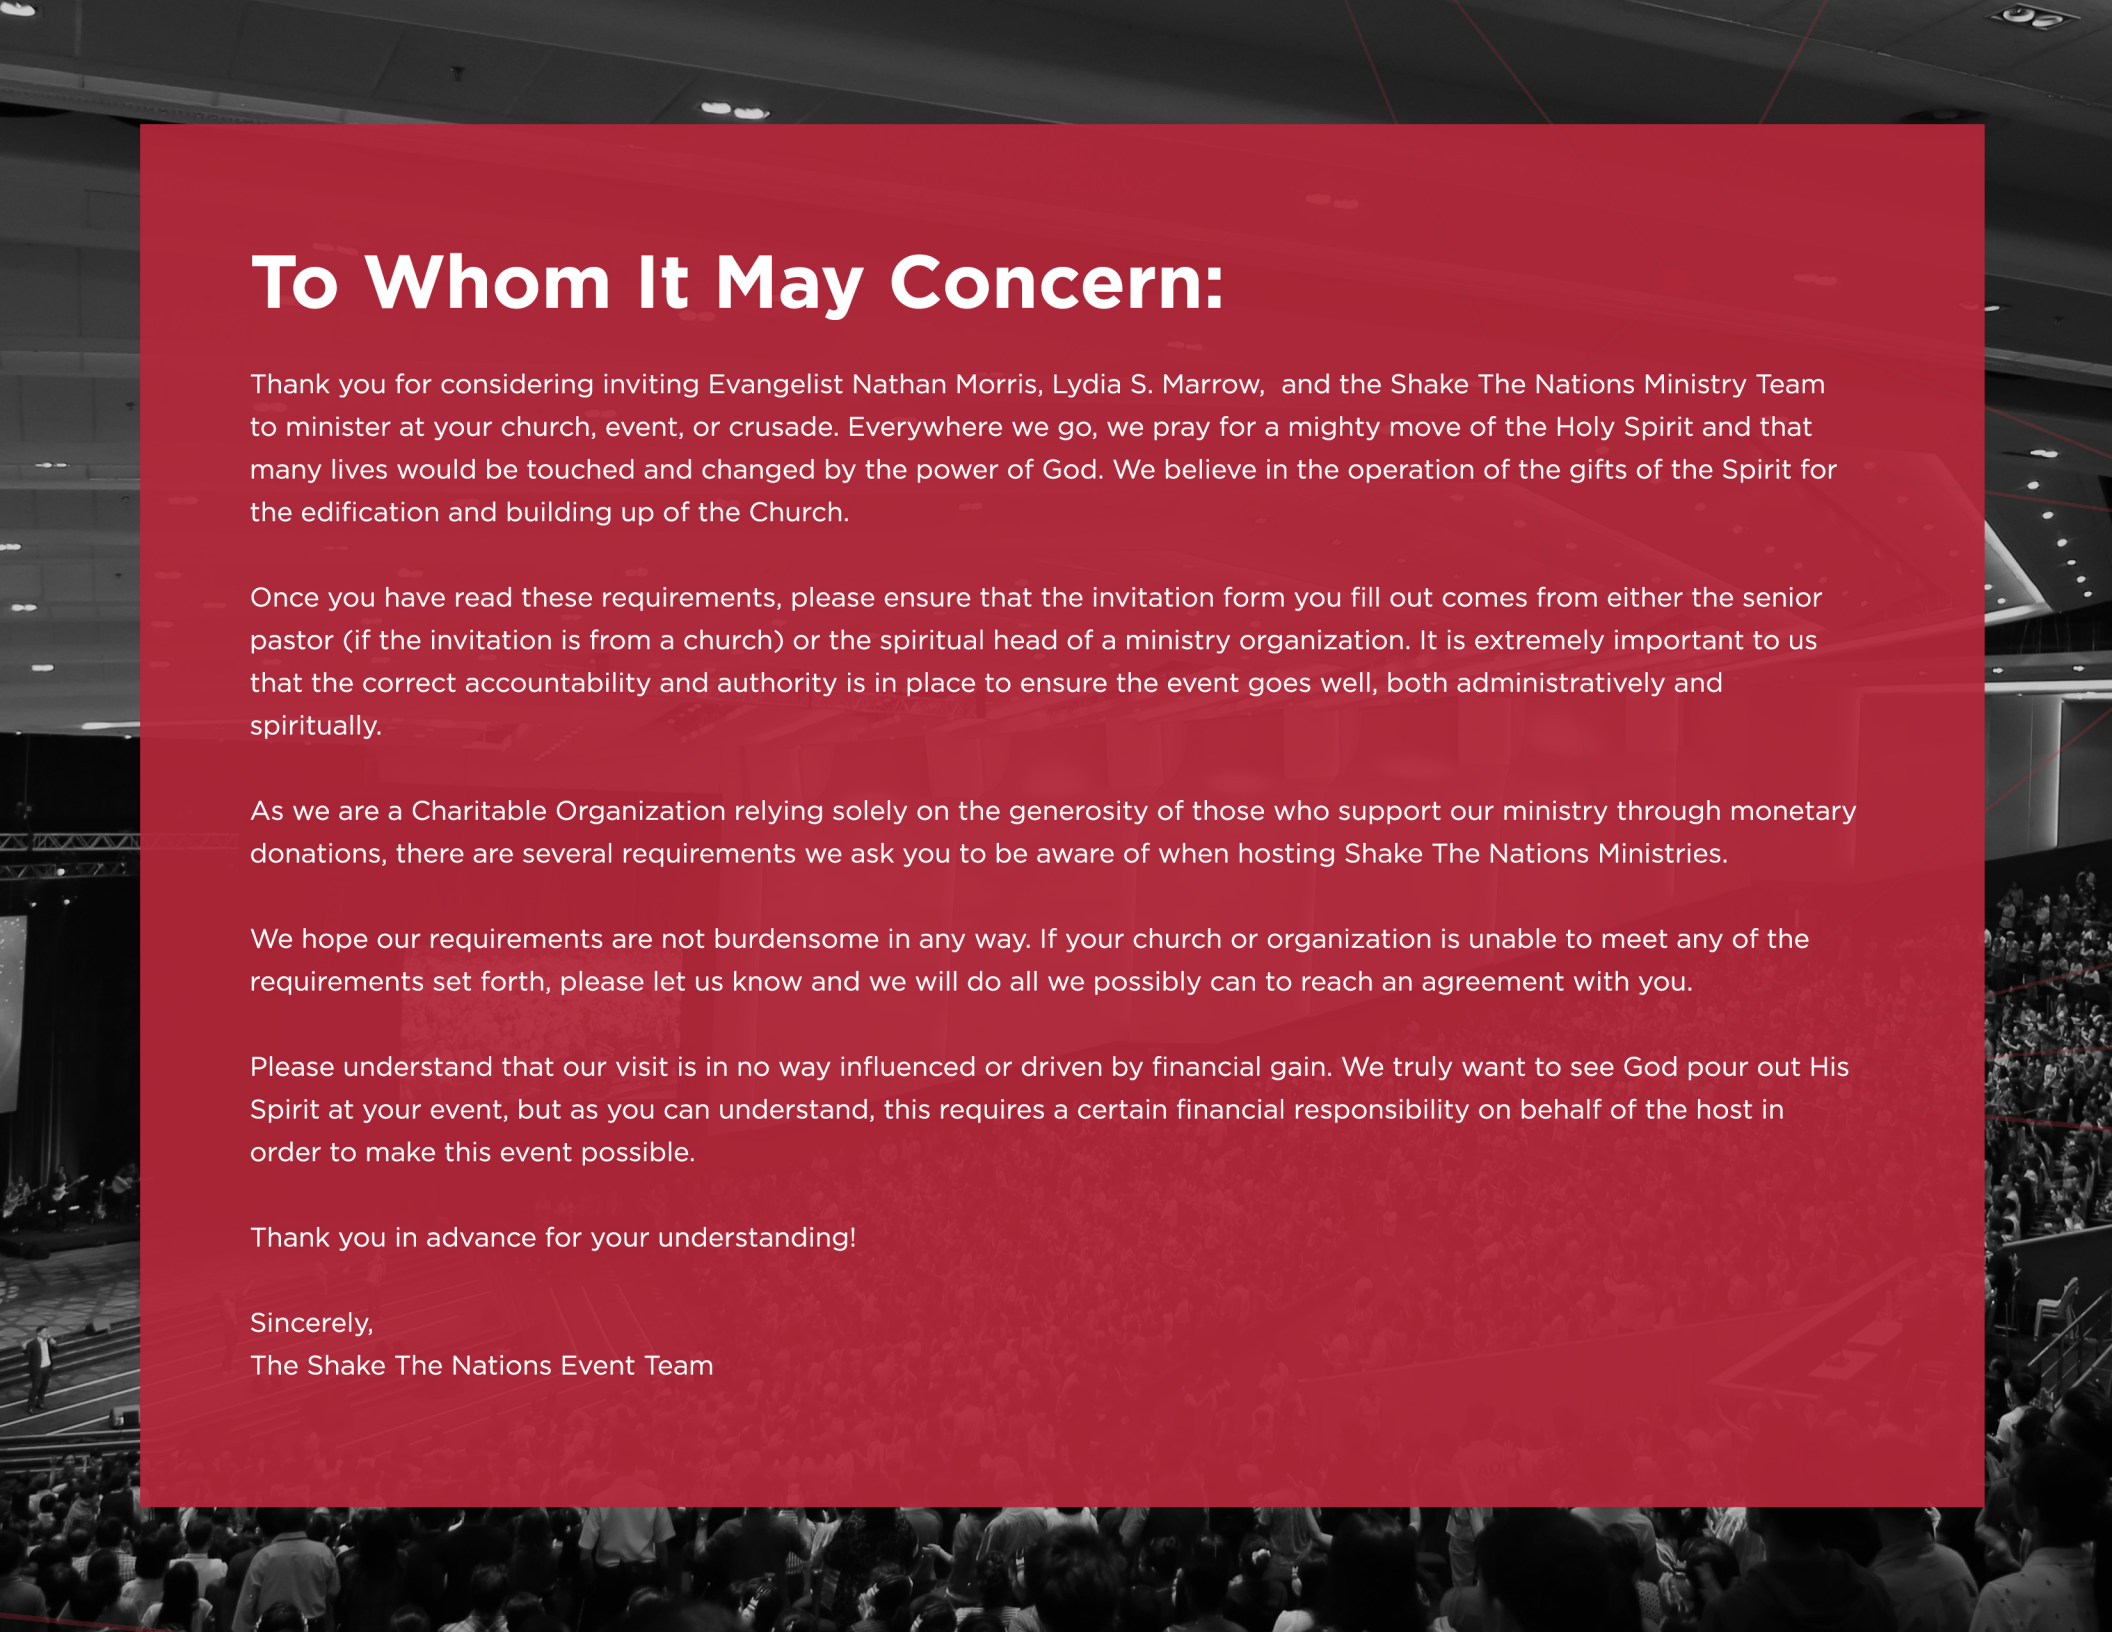
SHAKE THE NATIONS MINISTRIES



To Whom It May Concern:

Thank you for considering inviting Evangelist Nathan Morris, Lydia S. Marrow, and the Shake The Nations Ministry Team to minister at your church, event, or crusade. Everywhere we go, we pray for a mighty move of the Holy Spirit and that many lives would be touched and changed by the power of God. We believe in the operation of the gifts of the Spirit for the edification and building up of the Church.

Once you have read these requirements, please ensure that the invitation form you fill out comes from either the senior pastor (if the invitation is from a church) or the spiritual head of a ministry organization. It is extremely important to us that the correct accountability and authority is in place to ensure the event goes well, both administratively and spiritually.

As we are a Charitable Organization relying solely on the generosity of those who support our ministry through monetary donations, there are several requirements we ask you to be aware of when hosting Shake The Nations Ministries.

We hope our requirements are not burdensome in any way. If your church or organization is unable to meet any of the requirements set forth, please let us know and we will do all we possibly can to reach an agreement with you.

Please understand that our visit is in no way influenced or driven by financial gain. We truly want to see God pour out His Spirit at your event, but as you can understand, this requires a certain financial responsibility on behalf of the host in order to make this event possible.

Thank you in advance for your understanding!

Sincerely,
The Shake The Nations Event Team

Information Required for International Invites:

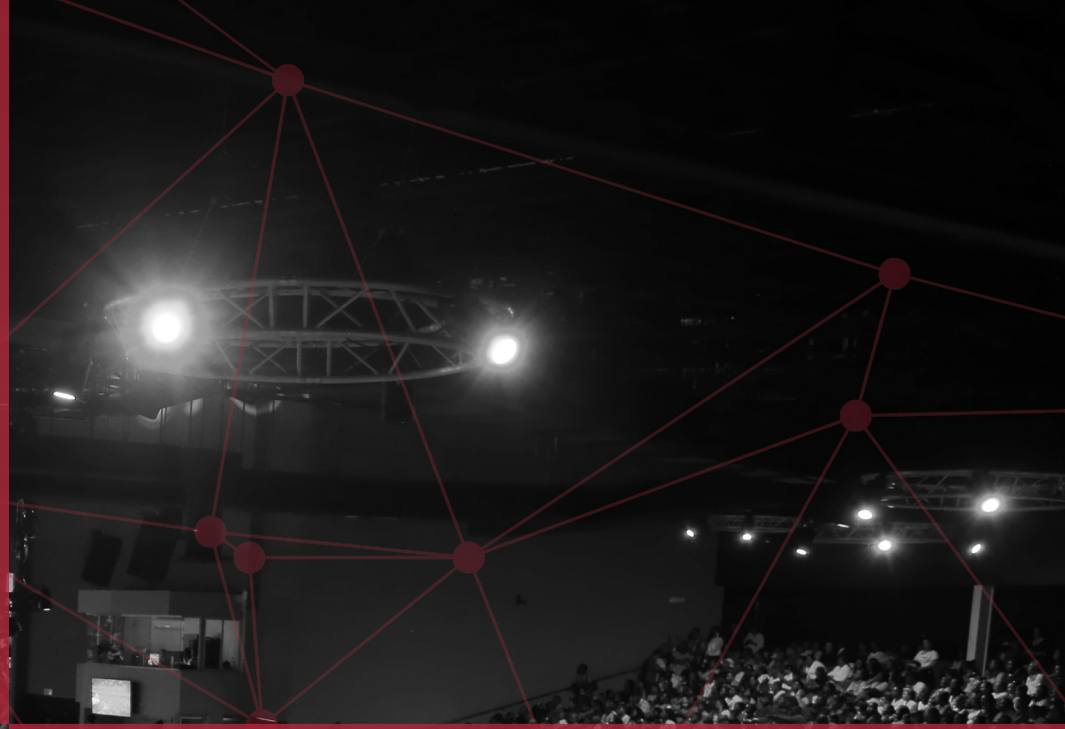
The key components we look at for international invitations are churches working together for an outreach-style event to reach a city or region. Please understand, it needs to be for a considerable-sized gathering to justify the costs involved of travel. We would look for you to provide help with travel and accommodations and an honorarium. The extent of this can all be discussed once we feel we can accept your invitation.

For all International invitations, please provide very clear details in terms of expected attendance and provide as much information as possible. In particular, any logistical and venue information you feel is relevant is very helpful, along with information about events you have done in the past. Lastly, and most importantly, we need to know what churches, ministries and denominations you intend to work with to ensure this event will effectively reach the lost and to provide follow up to ensure that the event has lasting fruit. The bible clearly states that where there is unity, God commands His blessings. This is something we have seen firsthand, so this is of paramount importance when we do crusades.

Should we accept your invitation, please know that we will require much more detailed information for the event. We will provide further guidance to work with you on this.

Flights, Accommodation and Transportation:

Due to our experience in this area, we will make all our own arrangements unless we ask for your help with local transportation. Please do not make any arrangements without first discussing this with us.



Aims and expectations:

Please know that the purpose of any event of this nature is to see God move sovereignly in a region to see many saved. Due to the magnitude and scale of what we do, our intention is to see fruitful results, not promoting any ministry or church, but to work together for the kingdom. We always want to see many decisions for Christ and many healings, but we also want to effectively follow up and feed these souls back into churches fairly so they can be nurtured and matured into new soul winners for Christ. We are answerable to God for all we do with what He puts in our hands. Let's make an impact for eternity together!
